—Recently, a boy in Montreal put two fire crackers into his nostrils and fired them to see the effect. He now knows he has no nose.

—In a ravine in the town of Worthington, Mass., there is yet a pile of snow one hundred feet deep.

—About two o'clock Friday evening the roof of the Buffalo union puddling mill, ninety by two hundred feet in length fell in, burying one hundred workmen in the debris, killing four and dreadfully crushing fifteen.

—Chauncey Page, the murderer, has been assessed $3000 damage for shooting and otherwise assaulting the girl Fredonia Ludolph, whom he thought he had killed with the rest of his victims.

—A dispatch from Montreal says that apartments have been reserved at St. Lawrence hall for Jefferson Davis and family. The southern refugees at Toronto intend to invite him to visit that city.

—A man named Tyos was recently expelled from a New Orleans hackmen association on the ground that he was of African blood. He now sues for $5000 damages for being called a negro.

—A writer in a St. Louis paper, who has recently traveled through the states of South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, says that deaths occur almost daily in the localities which he visited, and that many more must occur before the corn crop matures, unless aid comes from the north.

—A Kansas farmer scattered hay around his wheat field last fall, and the locusts gathering into the hay at night, he set fire to it in the morning, and by repeating the process saved twenty-five out of thirty acres, and the wheat is now looking well.

—The Lorillard tobacco factory in Atlanta is one of the largest in the world. It pays $1,000,000 per year in taxes to the government, and spends $1000 per month for printing labels. The average stock on hand for the past six years was 1,300,000 pounds. Here are made annually 1,000,000 pounds of snuff, 1200 barrels of which go to Newbern, N. C., for the use of the snuff dipping dames and demoiselles of the old North State. The otto of roses used for scenting the snuff cost $36,000 per year.

—An English paper is responsible for the following rather tough yarn: One Saturday last March a man at Fort Pitt, Prince Rupert's Land, British America, killed some hogs in the presence of his two little boys, aged six and eight years, respectively. Sunday the little ones got to playing "hog killing," and when the unhappy parents returned from church they were horror-stricken by the sight that awaited them. The elder boy had killed his brother, hung him up like bacon by the legs, and disemboweled him, and came running toward them, clapping his hands and exclaiming he had "killed little piggy; come and see."

—There is at a Nashville brewery a mammoth frog, weighing twelve pounds, which is supposed to have attained his enormous size from the nourishment received from the health-giving beverage manufactured at that establishment. He is kept in the cellar, with no companions but his own thoughts, and drinks his regular allowance of lager with all the apparent satisfaction and relish of a portly Mynheer of the olden time.

—As an illustration of the perfect condition to which the workings of the Atlantic cable has been brought, a London paper mentions that recently, in the business of three entire days, during which messages were transmitted containing 24,400 letters (or 48,880 letters when doubled for repetition,) the repetitions showed a mistake of only one letter; consisting in the substitution of "Pattleson" for "Patteson."

—Dr. M. Kayserling has lately published a "History of the Jews in Portugal," which is painful reading, like the history of religious persecutions. The most curious portions of this volume which it contains of the negotiations of John, the then king of Portugal, the Popes Clement VII and Paul III, in regard to the forcibly converted Jews, or "New Christians," as they were called. To the honor of these pontiffs they espoused the cause of these unfortunate people warmly, but with little effect. The persecutions continued until the time of Pombal.

—The ritualists are unpopular in some parts of England. On Good Friday the Rev. James Hunt, incumbent of a parish near Bridgewater, entered the church bearing in his hand a large wooden cross and followed by the bell-ringer and a woman named Cottey, who has been for some time past the sole member of his congregation. A mob of about fifty persons, including a number of children dressed out with colored paper, soon burst into the church, pelted the reverend gentleman with eggs, beat the woman Cottey, and tore her clothes to rags, and regaled themselves with tobacco and cider. Mr. Hunt was finally driven to a neighboring house for shelter.

MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

EXTRACT

From the Liturgy of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, now in Press.

INTIMATE SECRETARY.

Duty is the moral magnetism which controls and guides the true Mason's course over the tumultuous seas of life. Whether the stars of honor, reputation and reward do or do not shine, in the light of day or in the darkness of the night of trouble and adversity, in calm or storm, that unerring magnet still shows him the true course to steer, and indicates with certainty where-away lies the port which not to reach involves shipwreck and dishonor. He follows its silent bidding, as the mariner, when land is for many days not in sight, and the ocean without path or landmark spreads out all around him, follows the bidding of the needle, never doubting that it points truly to the north. To perform that duty, whether the performance be rewarded or unrewarded, is his sole care. And it doth not matter though of this performance there may be no witnesses, and though what he does will be forever unknown to all mankind.

* * * * *

Every man hath his own sins enough, in his own mind trouble enough, in his own fortunes evil enough, and in performance of his offices failings more than enough, to entertain his own inquiry; so that curiosity after the affairs of others cannot be without envy and an ill mind.

* * * * *

It should be objection sufficient to exclude any man from the society of Masons, that he is not disinterested and generous, both in his acts and in his opinions of men, and his constructions of their conduct. He who is selfish and grasping, or censorious and ungenerous, will not long remain within the strict limits of honesty and truth, but will shortly commit injustice. He who loves himself too much must needs love others too little; and he who habitually gives harsh judgment will not long delay to give unjust judgment.

The generous man is not careful to return no more than he receives; but prefers that the balances upon the ledger of benefits shall be in his favor. He who hath received pay in full for all the benefits and favors that he has conferred, is like a spendthrift who has consumed his whole estate, and laments over an empty exchequer. He who requites my favors with ingratitude adds to, instead of diminishing, my wealth; and he who cannot return a favor is equally poor, whether his inability arise from poverty of spirit, sordidness of soul or pecuniary poverty.

If he is wealthy who hath large sums invested, and the mass of whose fortune consists in obligations that bind other men to pay him money, he is still more so to whom many owe large returns of kindnesses and favors. Beyond a moderate sum each year, the wealthy man merely invests his means; and that which he never uses is still like favors unreturned and kindnesses unreciprocated, an actual and real portion of his fortune.

Generosity and a liberal spirit make men to be humane and genial, openhearted, frank and sincere, earnest to do good, easy and contented, and wellwishers of mankind. They protect the feeble against the strong, and the defenseless against rapacity and craft. They succor and comfort the poor, and are the guardians, under God, of his innocent and helpless wards. They value friends more than riches or fame, and gratitude more than money or power. They are noble by God's patent, and their escutcheons and quarterings are to be found in heaven's great book of heraldry. Nor can any man any more be a Mason than he can be a gentleman, unless he is generous, liberal and disinterested. To be liberal but only of that which is our own; to be generous but only when we have first been just; to give when to give deprives us of a luxury or a comfort, this is Masonry indeed.

He who is worldly, covetous or sensual must change before he can be a good Mason. If we are governed by inclination and not by duty; if we are unkind, severe, censorious or injurious, in the relations or intercourse of life; if we are unfaithful parents or undutiful children; if we are harsh masters or faithless servants; if we are treacherous friends or bad neighbors or bitter competitors or corrupt or unprincipled politicians or overreaching dealers in business, we are wandering at a great distance from the true Masonic light.

Masons must be kind and affectionate one to another. Frequenting the same temples, kneeling at the same altars, they should feel that respect and that kindness for each other, which their common relation and common approach to one God should inspire. There needs to be much more of the spirit of the ancient fellowship among us; more tenderness for each other's faults, more forgiveness, more solicitude for each other's improvement and good fortune.

THE SQUARE AND COMPASS,

a new candidate for the favour of the Craft, is published in Raleigh, North Carolina, every Saturday, by JOSEPH G. HESTER. It thus announces itself:

This journal will be devoted to Masonry, literature, agriculture, and the moral training of the mind. Not a stone shall be left unturned to make it acceptable to every fireside in the country.

Terms of subscription, $3 00 a year, and $2 00 for six months. Advertisements will be inserted at the usual rates.

TO LYDIA.

[Written by Bro. DANIEL S. DICKINSON, of New York, to his wife, only five days before his death.]

In youth's bright morn, when life was new,
And earth was fresh with dew and flowers,
And love was warm, and friendship true,
And hope and happiness were ours—

We started, hand in hand, to thread
The checkered, changeful path of life,
And with each other trusting tread
The battle-fields of worldly strife.

We ranged in walks obscure, unseen,
O'er rugged steep, through vale and glen,
And climbed along the hill sides green,
Unmindful of the future then.

We caught the song of earlier birds,
We culled the loveliest flowers of spring,
We plighted love in whispering words,
And time sped by on fairy wing.

And as it passed new joys were found,
And life was gladdened by the birth
Of prattling babes, who clusted round,
To cheer with smiles our humble hearth.

Fate thrust us forth before the world,
And phantom whispered earthly fame,
Where hope's proud banner is unfurled,
And happiness too often a flame.

Thus lured along, we rode the dark
And foaming tide of public life,
And proudly dared, with splendid bark,
The elements of storm and strife.

But storm and strife, thank Heaven! have passed;
The night has fled, and morning come!
And we, tossed mariners, at last
Returned once more to hearth and home.

But of the loved ones God has given,
Two have returned—two sank to rest,
In life's gay morning called to Heaven,
To the bright mansions of the blest.

They sleep amid spring forest glades,
Where flows its streamlet's murmurin waves;
And oft at evening's gentle shades
We'll weep beside their early graves.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

TENNESSEE—(Concluded.)

That the habit of drunkenness, unfortunately indulged in by too many Masons, is at variance with the tenets and teachings of our Order, well calculated to bring it into disrepute, and should not be tolerated among the members of any Subordinate Lodge; and that suspension for minor offenses and expulsion for a confirmed habit of drunkenness be invariably adopted.

That we hold the disgusting and un-Masonic habit of profanity in great contempt, and that it is the duty of every presiding officer, on proper occasions, to admonish his Lodge, with deliberate calmness and firmness, and endeavor by his influence to produce a general Masonic condemnation of that odious custom.

That the despicable habit of tattling and slandering is unworthy any man or Mason; and that in every case of well attested slander, the caluminator be immediately expelled from all the benefits of Masonry.

That this Grand Lodge considers the practice of gambling as decidedly un-Masonic and unbecoming in Masons, and in the opinion of this Grand Lodge should not be tolerated by any Subordinate Lodge.

That in case the M. W. Grand Master is satisfied that any Lodge is in the habit of tolerating said practice, it shall be his duty to demand the Charter of such Lodge, and suspend their work until the next Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge.

That, in the opinion of this Grand Lodge, it is inexpedient to grant any dispensation for the formation of a new Lodge, if such new Lodge is to be located within ten miles of an old Lodge, except it be in a town containing not less than two thousand inhabitants, and except in cases where the Grand Master may, in his opinion, think the interests of the craft require it.

No dispensation shall hereafter be issued for the establishment of a new Lodge, unless the prayer of the petitioners be accompanied by a recommendation from the nearest chartered Lodge in the vicinity of the petitioners, stating expressly that the brothers recommended to be W. Master and Wardens of such Lodge are well qualified to confer correctly the first three degrees of Masonry.

That when a Subordinate Lodge alters, amends or changes its By-Laws, a copy of the same shall be submitted to the next Grand Lodge thereafter for its approval.

That, in the opinion of this Grand Lodge, non-affiliated Masons are not entitled, as a matter of right, to the charities or honors of the Order.

According to the ancient Constitutions of Masonry, no brother can be a Master until he has acted as a Warden in some regular Lodge.*

That the Subordinate Lodges of this jurisdiction be required not to make a Mason of a man who has not resided within the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Lodge, to which he may petition, for the term of twelve months, or shall produce a certificate of good character from the Lodge nearest his former place of residence.

That the W. Master, Senior or Junior Warden of each Subordinate Lodge shall be required to deliver one of the three lectures at least once in each month, in open Lodge.

That, in the opinion of this Grand Lodge, it is inexpedient for any Mason to be an active member of more than one Lodge. That any brother, being a member of more than one Lodge, shall not take part in the proceedings or vote in but one.

That subordinate Lodges within this jurisdiction be and they are hereby instructed not to confer any degrees in Masonry upon any individual who is physically or mentally incapable of earning a livelihood or of receiving and imparting the ritual of Masonry.

*It has been a practice to elect Masters from those only who have served as Wardens; but the practice is not to be adhered to. Lodges should select their best men to fill the offices.—Report on Jurisprudence, 1866.

LOUISIANA.

New Orleans.—On the 13th the new Lodgeroom over the Bible house in Camp street, which has lately been fitted up, was consecrated with beautiful and touching ceremonies. Many present. An elegant supper followed. Bro. S. B. Buckner made a beautiful speech.

FRANCE.

Paris.—The Lodge "Fraternity of the People" had a splendid feast March 9th. This Lodge is discussing the effect of "Luxury upon the Arts, Morals and Manners of Society." [It is customary in many foreign Lodges to have some topic of discussion at its meetings.]

The Lodge "Labor" (if we understand the great question) ranges itself on the side of allowing an Atheist to be a Freemason, and thus violates a French, no less than an American, Masonic landmark. It elected Bro. Massol, the advocate of the new movement, an honorary member.

The Lodge "Rainbow" has been discussing the propriety of striking out the first question put to neophytes of the right of Misraim: "Do you acknowledge a belief in T.·. G.·. A.·. O.·. T.·. U.·.?" A few were in favor of striking out, the great majority were for retaining, and a majority for retaining and admitting only those who believe in a God.

The Lodge "True Faithful Friends," (Scottish Rite) are discussing the "Death Penalty." The sentiment of the Lodge is against it.

The Lodge "Disciples of Fenelon," have been considering the proposition of Bro. Brimont, which opposes the system of orphan asylums, and favors that of adoption, or Masonic families receiving into their bosom an orphan as their own child. Bro. B. prefers a family life for the orphan to the life in common in the the orphan asylum.

Lodge "133" are discussing the following question; "The Rights and Duties of Man in Society."

The Lodge "Straight Line" are discussing the propriety of a Masonic manual suitable to be placed in the hands of youth.

Four hundred brethren were present at the civil marriage of a Freemason at the hall of the mayor of Paris, lately. After the congratulations of the municipal officer, a brother presented to the newly married a bouquet, in the name of the assembled Craftsmen, congratulating him on his courage in following the inspirations of his conscience, notwithstanding the common prejudice—alluding, we suppose, to the marriage being by a civil officer and not by a priest. The whole was followed by a banquet and ball.

Lodge "Perfect Union of Perseverance" is discussing "Divine and Human Morality," and "Ought an Intolerant Morality to be Telerated?"

The Lodge "Henry Fourth" is discussing the following: "The Means for Making Masonry Practical in Commercial Transactions; the influence of Fashion Upon Industry; Science, and the Education of Man from a Masonic View; Fine Arts and Civilization; Literature, and the Creation of one Universal National Language."

Marseilles.—In this Orient the Lodge "Accord and Harmony" is remarkable for its small number of members (17), and for their active philanthropy and the good they achieve.

The Lodge "United Brothers," at Strasburg, at the inauguration of their new temple, March 10th, were visited by deputations from eleven different Orients.

In some Lodges the newly initiated receives from the Lodge his apron in a case bearing his name.

GERMANY.

Bavaria.—The Lodge of Furth, although chiefly composed of Christians, has chosen Bro. Ollesheimer, an Israelite, as Master. Will the Lodge of Berlin profit by this indication of veritable Masonic progress?

HUNGARY.

The number of Lodges promises to greatly increase upon the promulgation of the new Constitution, which gives all latitude to their establishment.

SYRIA.

Bro. Eldridge is the Master of Lodge "Palestine" at Beyrout. There have been admitted lately to this Lodge Anna Jebely, secretary to the government of Damas; Henry Savani, chancellor to the consulate-general of France; Alexander Walewski, son of the ex-president of the legislative body; Elias Abelin, Maronite, professor of the Orthodox Greek college of Beyrout. Here are Mussulmans, Greek, Pagan, and Christian, Catholic and Lutheran, Maronite and Marabout. This Lodge raised 1300 francs January 18th, and distributed it among the different religious and beneficent communities of Beyrout.

ENGLAND.

The royal Masonic benevolent institution for aged Freemasons holds its periodical election for annuitants this month. There are thirty-five candidates, and eighteen are to be elected. They who obtain places do so by receiving a majority of the votes.

INDIA.

Madras—The chief corner-stone of the New Presidency College was laid with Masonic honors, in presence of Lord and Lady Napier and the Maharjah of Travancere. The District Grand Master referred to the foundation stone of the University of Edinburg having been laid November 16, 1789, by Francis Napier, Baron Napier, then Grand Master Mason of Scotland. He also noticed Napier's devotion to the poor and the suffering.

Lord Napier, in reply, referred to the institution as educating 300 youth from the provinces, of different races and religions, and the softening of their jealousies and local prejudices, and developing public virtue. He referred to the cherished pride for his grandfather's connection with Freemasonry.

SOLOMON AND FRANKLIN.

The Grand Master of Jerusalem was ahead of the Grand Master of Pennsylvania. King Solomon put up the OLDEST LIGHTNING CONDUCTOR. Arago, the celebrated French astronomer, says: The temple of the Jews at Jerusalem existed for a period of nearly 1000 years; for the temple of Solomon existed nearly 400 years, and the second temple about 600 years. This temple was, by its situation, more particularly exposed to the frequent and violent thunderstorms in Palestine. Nevertheles neither the Bible nor Josephus mentions that it was ever struck by lightning. The cause of this is very simple. By a fortuitous circumstance, the temple of Jerusalem was provided with a lightning conductor, which came very near that discovered by Franklin, used by us. The roof of the temple, similar to those found in Italy, was covered with thickly gilt wood. Lastly, beneath the forecourt of the temple, there were cisterns into which flowed the water coming from the roof by means of metal pipes. Here we find such a number of lightning conductors, that Litchtenberg was right when he maintained that the mechanism of the like constructions in our days is far from presenting an apparatus so well adapted to produce the desired effect.

A VALUABLE DOCUMENT—OWNER WANTED.

There is now lying on our table a piece of parchment in the form of a charter for a Masonic Lodge which was issued over ninety-two years ago. It is still quite perfect and legible, and every word contained therein may be read.

This charter was issued on the 13th of April, 1775, just six days before the battle of Lexington, by Joseph Montfort, Esq., of Halifax, North Carolina, to John Crawford, Joel Sturdevant, Sen., and William Simmons, Jr., and several other brethren residing near Cabin Point, Surry county, Colony of Virginia, who are constituted a regular Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, to be opened at Cabin Point, and to be known by the name of "The Cabin Point Royal Arch Lodge."

In this charter Mr. Montfort states that, "Whereas His Grace, Henry Somerset, Duke of Beaufort and Grand Master of the Most Ancient and Honorable Society of Free and Accepted Masons, hath been graciously pleased, (by patent dated January 14th, Anno Latomorum, 5771, Anno D. 1771, of London,) to constitute me Provincial Grand Master of and for America, with full power, etc."

The question will naturally be asked, "How came this document in Rochester?" That can be readily answered. During the late war, when Virginia was occupied by Federal soldiers, some one of them picked up this parchment and brought it North. After passing from hand to hand it came into the possession of John W. McElhenny, contractor. He holds it subject to the order of its proper custodians, if they can be found, and would be very happy to restore it to its rightful owners. If the Virginia papers will notice the fact that the charter is here it may lead to its restoration.—Rochester (N. Y. Union and Advertiser, 30th.

The language used in our lectures corresponding with the Scripture use of the terms right and left, is calculated to mislead the reader, unless he refers them to their true position, viz: facing the East. It is to the Senior Warden's right and left that the terms belong—he alone, of all the lodge officers facing the East. Whiston, in his translation of Josephus, says, in a note to Antiquities, Book viii., chapter 3, section 6: "Here Josephus gives us a key to his own language of right and left hand, in the tabernacle and temple, that by the right hand he means what is against our left when we suppose ourselves going up from the east gates of the courts towards the tabernacle or temple themselves, and vice versa. Whence it follows that the pillar Jochim on the right hand of the temple was on the South against our left hand, and Boaz on the North against our right hand."

In that passage used in the Order of High Priests (Genesis xiv, 15), in which Abram is described as pursuing the Mesopotamians "unto Hobah, which is on the left hand of Damascus," the same rule is to be observed. Moses wrote that passage while in Egypt, facing the East, from where he then stood, Hobah was on his left, that is, to the North of Damascus.

Our ritual expressions "on the right of the Worshipful Master in the East," etc., are exceptions to the above rule, because that officer sits facing to the West.

SUNDAY READING.

NO ONE LIKE A MOTHER.

A poor old woman lay upon her sick bed in a close, uncomfortable room, with a daughter and little grandchild to take care of her. But whom do you think this aged woman called for all the time, and longed to have come and nurse her?

It was "mother"—her own mother.

"Oh, there's nobody like mother to take care of you when you are sick," she said.

A person present asked how long her mother had been dead.

"About fifty years, I reckon," she answered.

Do you think you will remember your mother's loving care for fifty years? No doubt you will, if God spares your life. You may think but little of it now, but you will think a great deal of it then. This woman's children and grandchildren had grown up about her, but her heart reached back over all that waste of years to the time when she was a child at her mother's side.

It was for "mother," "mother," that our poor boys, in tent and hospital, called and prayed, when sick and wounded, they were laid down to die.

Oh, there is nobody like a mother in love and care for us. What return are you making her every day for all she does for you? Do your feet run willingly to do her bidding, as soon as it is known? Do you try to save her trouble, and lighten all her burdens? Oh, nothing in this world can do it so effectually as to know that her children are growing up good, and noble, and useful in the world.

THE WORLD WOULD BE THE BETTER FOR IT—LOVE CHARITY.

BY M. H. COBB.

If men cared less for wealth and fame,
And less for battle-fields and glory;
If writ in human hearts a name
Seemed better than in song and story;
If men, instead of nursing pride,
Would learn to hate and abhor it;
If more relied on love to guide,
The world would be the better for it.

If men dealt less in stocks and lands,
And more in bonds and deeds fraternal;
If Love's work had more willing hands,
To link this world to the supernal;
If men stored up love's oil and wine,
And on bruised human hearts would pour it;
If "yours" and "mine" would once combine
The world would be the better for it.

If more would act the play of life,
And fewer spoil it in rehearsal;
If bigotry would sheathe its knife
Till good became more universal;
If custom, gray with ages grown,
Had fewer blind men to adore it;
If talent shone for truth alone,
The world would be the better for it.

If men were wise in little things,
Affecting less in all their dealings;
If hearts had fewer rusted strings
To isolate their kindly feelings;
If men, when wrong beats down the right,
Would strike together and restore it;
If right made might in every fight,
The world would be the better for it.

"SHE ALWAYS MADE HOME HAPPY."

Such was the brief but impressive sentiment which a friend wished to add to an obituary notice of "one who had gone before." What better tribute could be offered to the memory of the lost? Eloquence, with her loftiest eulogy; poetry, with her utmost thrilling dirge, could afford nothing so sweet, so touching, so suggestive of the virtues of the dead, as those simple words: "She always made home happy!"

CHINESE AND JAPANESE INSCRIPTIONS TRANSLATED INTO ENGLISH.

In the spring, when the new year opens in Loo Choo, and perhaps in Japan also, the usage of the islanders is to offer the expression of their good wishes and friendly feeling, in the form of inscriptions, attached to the houses of each other, or sent to the inmates, a few of which we subjoin as specimens.

"Gay clouds met the rising, glorious sun; then thousand joys greet the opening spring."

"Let all sing these days of general peace, and rejoice together in the opening spring."

"May all joys clamber about your happy abode; may a thousand lucks collect at this gate."

"May every door have luck and joy; and every land be blessed with peace."

"May your felicity be as broad as the eastern sea; your age enduring as the southern hills."

"The peach tree in [illegible] land ripens in thirty centuries; may the seaside house be blessed with ninety more autumns."

"We joyfully hope the brightening year will meet a flourishing time as the bloom of spring begins to shine upon this humble door."

"May the three stars, peace, office, age, enter your door; and sons, riches, honors, bless your gate."

"Happiness descends from heaven."

"As the wind and light go their circuits through the world, so does the gladsome spring from heaven to us come down."

WHAT RABBI JEHOSHA SAID.

Rabbi Jehosha used to say
That God made angels every day,
Perfect as Michael and the rest
First brooded in creation's nest,
Whose only office was to cry
"Hosanna!" once, and then to die—
If with life's source to be blent,
Be not return from banishment.

Rabbi Jehosha had the skill
To know that Heaven is in God's will;
And doing that, though for a space,
One heartbeat long may win a grace
As full of grandeur and of glow
As Princes of the Chariot know.

'Twere glorious, no doubt, to be
One of the wing'd hierarchy;
To burn with seraphs or to shine
With Cherubs, deathlessly divine.
Yet I, perhaps, poor earthly clod,
Could I forget myself in God,
Could I but find my nature's clew
Simply as birds and blossoms do,
And but for one rapt moment know
'Tis Heaven that comes, not we that go,
Should win my place as near the Throne
As the pearl angel of its zone,
And God would listen, 'mid the throng,
For my one breath of perfect song.

CURIOUS DISCOVERY.

In the great Pyramid of Egypt is a small opening at the top, the depth of which has never been sounded. Another aperture of the same size exists at the foot of the pyramid. It was long conjectured that these two openings communicated with each other, but no means could be devised to establish the fact, till the problem was solved recently by the ingenuity of an Arab. He took a cat and her kittens, placed the old cat in one aperture and the kittens in another, and stopped up both with stones. The next day he opened them and found cat and kittens all together at the foot of the long passage.

AN ITEM WHICH EVERY MAN SHOULD READ.

We have probably all of us met with instances in which a word heedlessly spoken against the reputation of a female has been magnified by malicious minds until the cloud has been dark enough to overshadow her whole existence. To those who are accustomed, not necessarily from bad motives, but from thoughtlessness, to speak lightly of ladies, we recommend these "hints" as worthy of consideration:

Never use a lady's name in an improper place, at an improper time, or in a mixed company. Never make assertions about her that you think untrue, or allusions that you feel she herself would blush to hear. When you meet with men who do not scruple to make use of a woman's name in a reckless and unprincipled manner, shun them, for they are the very worst members of the community—men lost to every sense of honor, every feeling of humanity. Many a good and worthy woman's character has been forever ruined and heart broken by a lie manufactured by some villain, and repeated where it should not have been, and in the presence of those whose little judgment could not deter them from circulating the foul and bragging report. A slander is soon propagated, and the smallest thing derogatory to a woman's character will fly on the wings of the wind, and magnify as it circulates, until its monstrous weight crushes the poor unconscious victim. Respect the name of woman, for your mother and sisters are women, and as you would have their fair name untarnished, and their lives unembittered by the slanderer's bitter tongue, heed the ill that your own words may bring upon the mother, the sister, or the wife of some fellow creature.

A WORD TO THE BOYS.

Come, boys, and listen a few moments to your uncle. You have now arrived at an age when you must begin to think about doing something for yourselves. The first piece of advice I have for you is, to do everything well which you undertake. There is but little danger of your being too particular in this respect. A boy who is careful to draw a straight line on his slate, will be very likely to make a straight line through life. There is no position in life in which you will not be called upon to be exact as possible. Step into a jeweler's shop, and see how careful the workman must be in finishing up the article he holds in his hands. Visit a shipyard, and the man with the broadaxe must learn to hew on the line, or be dismissed. You think of being a clerk. Well, remember that a mistake there is little less than a crime. I never saw a man who was very particular about his affairs that was not successful. How exact the military officer in the command of a body of men! A clumsy sailor will never rise to the command of a ship.

But there is one great danger which besets many young men at the present day. It is the disposition to avoid all solid improvement, and take up with subjects that require no thought, and which serve as mere excitement to the mind. Your older friends tell you that boys are very fast at the present day, but I can remember fast boys long before you were born, but they never made solid and useful men! Very few of them ever lived to be forty years old. Nobody ever trusted them—they never filled any important office or station.

They usually became small men, because they had no capital in their heads with which to work out a living. Out of fifty of that class of fast boys I do not know of one who ever accomplished much. As you sow, so shall you reap. The boy who spends his hours late and early at the card table, bowling-alley, or tavern bar room, is learning nothing useful, but much that is injurious. Listen to such men as Amos Lawrence, Thos. H. Benton, Daniel Webster, Benj. Franklin and George Washington, and they will all tell you that they avoided all these things, and owed their greatness to their attention in early life to what would be useful to them.

This may be a hard lesson for you, but it must be studied, and the earlier in life you acquire it the better will your prospects be for a successful career. Please regard the advice of your old uncle Felix.

A SUBLIME TRUTH.

Let a man have all the world can give him, he is still miserable, if he has a grovelling, unlettered, undevout mind. Let him have his gardens, his fields, his woods, his lawns, for grandeur, plenty, ornament and gratification, while at the same time God is not in all his thoughts. And let another have neither field nor garden, let him only look at nature with an enlightened mind—a mind which can see and adore the Creator in his works, can consider them as demonstrations of his power, his wisdom, his goodness and his truth—this man is greater, as well as happier in his poverty, than the other in his riches. The one is little higher than a beast, the other a little lower than an angel.

WHAT PIETY IT IS THE WORLD HATES.

It is not true that the world hates piety. The modest and unobtrusive piety which fills the heart with all human charities, and makes a man gentle to others and severe to himself, is an object of universal love and veneration. But mankind hate the lust of power, when it is vailed under the garb of piety; they hate canting and hypocrisy; they hate advertisers and quacks in piety; they do not choose to be insulted; they love to tear folly and impudence from the altar, which should only be a sanctuary for the wretched and the good.

CHILDREN AT PLAY.

"I was never so mortified in my life," said a mother, "as once when I overheard one of my little girls, a make-believe mother—scolding a doll, word for word, and tone for tone, as I was scolding Tom the day before." It was certainly not a pleasing reflection.

WAS SECESSION TREASON OR REBELLION?

We have read history in vain to find, if possible, something in the annals of National knavery and folly, to equal the impudent attempt of the Northern States to fix upon the effort of the Southern States to win their political independence, the brand of treason and rebellion. Rebellion against [illegible] against what ?—against [illegible] being, the United [illegible]? How could ten States rebel against the Union of themselves and the other States? They withdrew from that Union, and the States that they so separated from made war against them, to force them to return.

Apart from that, whatever the original right to secede, the rebellion, if it was one, grew at once into an immense civil war. The Union was divided, part of the States confronting the rest, and refusing to be longer connected with them. "When, in a republic," VATTEL says, "the Nation is divided into two opposite factions, and both sides take up arms, this is called a Civil War. . . . . . Custom appropriates the term of "Civil War" to every war between the members of one and the same political society." The term rebellion, he says, "is applied only to such an insurrection against lawful authority, as is void of all appearance of justice."

"When a nation," he says, "becomes divided into two parties absolutely independent, and no longer acknowledging a common superior, the State is dissolved, and the war between the two parties stands on the same ground, in every respect, as a public war between two different nations. Whether a Republic be split into two factions, each maintaining that it alone constitutes the body of the State, or a Kingdom be divided between two competitors for the crown, the nation is severed into two parties, who will mutually term each other rebels." There is no judge between them. They decide their quarrel by arms; and the obligation to observe all the common laws of war toward each other is absolute. After a few years' war between these two parties, it is an immense crime for the States that have conquered to deal with the citizens of the others as traitors or even rebels. Nothing could well be more impudently absurd. If the war of independence, of 1776, had resulted in the surrender of WASHINGTON to CORNWALLIS, and the failure of the attempt to win independence, does any one suppose that Great Britain would have dared to treat WASHINGTON and the other Generals and Statesmen of the Colonies as traitors? She had by far too much decency, honour, honesty and common sense to commit such an outrage.

You never see any attempt to prove that the citizens of a State that seceded were guilty of Treason. The Northern presses, preachers and politicians have acted on the idea that you can get any thing believed, after a time, if you will but repeat it often enough. There was no treason in the case. The United States divided, and part of the States fought the others. The same United States no longer existed. A partnership house is not the same house when eleven, out of its thirty-five partners, have withdrawn from it: and nobody in the South owed any allegiance to the twenty-two or three Northern States, although they retained the old name.

There was no treason, therefore; and the rebellion became a civil war at the beginning. The United States have the rights of conquest. They might have had us back in the Union, but they would not. If they exercise the rights of conquest, they must accept a reluctant and unwilling obedience,—submission, because resistance is impossible.

In the Prize Cases, 2 Black, 635, decided by the Supreme Court of the United States at the December Term, 1862, the decision of the Court was given by Mr. Justice GRIER.

The vessels in question had been condemned as lawful prize, for breaking or attempting to break the blockade of the ports of the Southern States, proclaimed by the President of the United States.

They could not be lawful prize, unless a war existed de facto. Unless there was a war, there could be no lawful blockade.

The Court held that a war existed. It said, "When the party in rebellion occupy and hold in a hostile manner a certain portion of territory; have declared their independence; have cast off their allegiance; have organized armies; have commenced hostilities against their former Sovereign, the world acknowledges them as belligerents, and the contest a war. They claim to be in arms to establish their liberty and independence, in order to become a Sovereign State, while the Sovereign party treats them as insurgents and rebels, who owe allegiance and who should be punished with death for their treason."

The Court then declared, that, "by the Constitution, Congress alone has the power to declare a national or foreign war;" and said, "It cannot declare war against a State, or any number of States, by virtue of any clause in the Constitution." The President, it said, "has no power to initiate or declare a war, either against a foreign nation or a domestic State." But, it said, the President "is bound to resist force by force. He does not initiate the war, but is bound to accept the challenge, without waiting for any special legislative authority. And whether the hostile party be a foreign invader, or STATES organized in rebellion, it is none the less a war, although the declaration of it be unilateral. Lord Stowell, (1 Dodson 247,) observes, "It is not the less a war, on that account; for war may exist without a declaration on either side. It is so laid down by the best writers on the law of nations. A declaration of war by one country only, is not a mere challenge, to be accepted or refused at pleasure by the other."

"This greatest of civil wars was not gradually developed by popular commotion, tumultuous assemblies, or local unorganized insurrections. However long may have been the previous conception, it nevertheless sprung forth suddenly from the parent brain, a Minerva in the full panoply of war. The President was bound to meet it in the shape it presented itself,—without waiting for Congress to baptize it with a name; and no name given to it by him or them could change the fact."

"It is not the less a civil war, with belligerent parties in hostile array, because it may be called an 'insurrection' by one side, and the insurgents be considered as rebels or traitors. It is not necessary that the revolted Province or State be acknowledged, in order to constitute it a party belligerent in a war, according to the law of Nations."

Foreign Nations, the Court said, could not "ask a Court to affect a technical ignorance of the existence of a war, which all the world acknowledges to be the greatest civil war known in the history of the human race, and thus cripple the arm of the Government and paralyze its power by subtle definitions and ingenious sophisms."

The law of nations, it said, "contains no such anomalous doctrine as that which this Court are now for the first time desired to pronounce, to wit: That insurgents who have risen in rebellion against their sovereign, expelled her courts, established a revolutionary government, organized armies, and commenced hostilities, are not enemies, because they are traitors; and a war levied on the Government by traitors, in order to dismember and destroy it, is not a war, because it is an insurrection."

Then the Court inquired what was included in the term "enemies' property;" and held that it included the property of all persons residing "within the territory of THE STATES NOW IN REBELLION, whether the owner be in arms against the Government or not."

It now becomes necessary for the Court, in order to sustain its conclusions, to change its language. Now it is no longer "insurgents risen in rebellion against their sovereign"—individual traitors and rebels, who wage the war. It is "the STATES now in rebellion." The counsel had insisted, quoting from the common law, "that persons who wage war against the King may be of two kinds, subjects or citizens. The former are not proper enemies, but rebels and traitors; the latter are those that come properly under the names of traitors."

The Court attempted to reply, not only to this, but to the further arguments, that the President himself admitted in his Proclamation that great numbers of loyal persons resided within the territories in possession of the insurgent Government, forced by compulsion to submit to it; that the acts of that usurping Government could not sever the bond of their allegiance, and they had a right to the protection of the United States; that insurrection is the act of individuals, and not of a Government or Sovereignty; that these individuals were subjects of law, and their property could be confiscated only under a municipal law, and upon conviction; and that the Secession ordinances were nullities, and ineffectual to release any citizen from his allegiance to the National Government, so that the Constitution and laws of the United States were still operative over persons in all the States, for punishment as well as protection.

The Court did not answer this argument by saying that when a Province of an Empire revolts, or an organized portion of a republic, against the Sovereign, that Sovereign, whether Emperor or Republic, may at any time elect to regard the movement as no longer an insurrection, but a civil war; that this will of course be done whenever it becomes a necessity, for the sake of his or its own soldiers taken prisoners, or for other compelling reasons; that this recognition of the insurgent Province or State as a belligerent will never be consented to by the Sovereign as an act of grace or as a concession to the insurgents, but as a matter of necessity or policy, and for his own benefit; and that when this is once done, the insurgents can no longer be treated as traitors, though they may still be styled rebels, and the sovereign rights of the Emperor or Republic to their allegiance will revive upon the final defeat and submission of the enemy: but the right to take their lives will cease to exist upon their surrender.

This was not what the Court desired to decide: and therefore it endeavoured to answer in another way, and did so in a singularly incoherent manner.

The argument, it said, rested on the assumption of two propositions, each without foundation on the established law of Nations. One of these it stated; the other it forgot to state. "It assumes," the Court said, "that where a civil war exists, the party belligerent claiming to be Sovereign, cannot, for some unknown reason, exercise the rights of belligerents, although the revolutionary party may." Now, the argument did not at all assume this. On the contrary, the reasoning was, that Congress had not declared war, or recognized the existence of a war; that the President had not done so, but had, on the contrary, called out troops, as a sort of posse comitatus, to suppress an insurrection of individuals, in certain States, whose insurrectionary action was not the action of their States; and that, this being so, there was no war, in the legal sense of the term: that the President refused to recognize the existence of a civil war, and Congress had not done it; and therefore the Court could not do it. The argument did not assume that a civil war existed; it did not assume that an insurrection could not become a civil war. It did not assume that the Sovereign could not exercise belligerent rights; but that he could not do so without admitting that there was a war waged by States against the United States, and not a mere insurrection of individuals; and it did not assume that the revolutionary party might exercise the rights of belligerents, though the Sovereign could not. On the contrary it insisted that the Sovereign had refused to recognize the revolutionary party as belligerents; and it followed that these could not exercise belligerent rights. If they could exercise them, of course the Sovereign could. One party could not be a belligerent, and the other not; because the conflict could not be a war for one and not for the other.

The Sovereign might, if he chose, continue for half a century to refuse to recognize the insurgent Province or State as a belligerent; and so long as he did so, it could exercise no belligerent rights, how much soever it might possess them. Spain refused to recognize the independence of Mexico, for many years after the war between them had ceased.

The Court said that it was a proposition never doubted, that the belligerent party claiming to be sovereign could exercise both belligerent and sovereign rights; and that treating the other party as a belligerent, and using only the milder modes of coercion which the law of nations has introduced to mitigate the rigours of war, cannot be a subject of complaint by the party to whom it is accorded as a grace or granted as a necessity. Undoubtedly, the hostile or insurrectionary States could not have complained if the United States had chosen to declare that war existed, and to recognize them as belligerents. The argument was that this had not been done, and that the United States had refused to do it. Whether, if they had done it, they could at the same time or afterwards, also treat the belligerent enemy as rebels and traitors, was not a question presented by the case before the Court.

But the Court, not satisfied with the muddle into which it had got the argument, made another struggle to satisfy itself, the result being "confusion worse confounded." It said:

"Under the very peculiar Constitution of this Government, although the citizens owe supreme allegiance to the Federal Government, they owe also a qualified allegiance to the State in which they are domiciled. Their persons and property are subject to its laws.

"Hence, in organizing this rebellion, they have acted as States, claiming to be sovereign over all persons and property within their respective limits, and asserting a right to absolve their citizens from their allegiance to the Federal Government. Several of these States have combined to form a new Confederacy, claiming to be acknowledged by the world as a Sovereign State. Their right to do so is now being decided by wager of battle. The ports and territory of each of these States are held in hostility to the General Government. It is no loose unorganized insurrection, having no defined boundary or possession. It has a boundary marked by lines of bayonets, and which can be crossed only by force. South of this line is enemies' territory, because it is claimed and held in possession by an organized hostile and belligerent power.

"All persons residing within this territory, whose property may be used to increase the revenues of the hostile power, are, in this contest, liable to be treated as enemies, though not foreigners. They have cast off their allegiance and made war on their government, and are none the less enemies because they are traitors."

When the British North-American colonies cast off their allegiance to the British Crown, and made war on their government, themselves organizing a Confederate Government and declaring their independence, it is quite certain that there was none the less a war, and that when Great Britain recognized them as belligerents, they became enemies, according to the meaning of that law, as defined by Fleta and Lord Coke. We do not see that their definition leads us into any error: nor do we understand the meaning of the sentence, that 'it' is "a technical phrase, peculiar to prize courts, and depends upon principles of public policy, as distinguished from common law."

We shall continue this discussion in our next.

NEW ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., May 20, 1867.
Editors Memphis Appeal:

AMUSEMENTS.

Summer is fast coming upon us. Business and travel have fallen off very suddenly, and a general lassitude prevails. Our streets are filled with promenaders, who appear to have little or nothing to do but superintend the different refreshment saloons.

Most of our places of public amusement being closed, the season has been regularly inaugurated by several "affairs of honor," which have come off with great eclat for the illustrious aspirants for notoriety; no serious damage has been recorded, however—a few thrusts with the small sword, a pistol shot or two, or an apology, has thus far wound up the different affairs, to the satisfaction of all concerned, the public included.

We are happy to state, however, that all our entertainments are not of a sanguinary character. One of our principal caterers to the public taste—Mons. Bob Hart—has introduced a novelty in the line of amusements which has eclipsed all his former efforts; and, judging from the large and appreciative audience that greeted his performances, bids fair to surpass all competitors. The diversion that pleased our community so greatly came off last Sunday afternoon. It was a goose race on "raging canawl," near the residence of Mons. Cioik. Twelve of these once sacred birds (alas! to what base uses are they fallen) were harnessed, six each, to separate tubs, containing the adventurous navigator, Mons. Hart, in one, and an equally adventurous compeer in the other. And then commenced the glorious contest. Words fail to do justice to the ludicrous subject; enough, that the race was honorably won by Mons. Bob Hart, who arrived at the goal triumphant, amid the vociferous cheers of thousands of delighted spectators. Afterward, mule racing, pony racing, newsboy racing, etc., closed the performances of the afternoon, to the intense satisfaction of all.

PUBLIC SPEAKING—REGISTRATION—NEGRO RIOTS AND RIGHTS, ETC.

Apparently our community is not satisfied without excitement of some description or other. Some they seek and some is thrust upon them. Our old citizens are satisfied at the extension of time of registration. A few office seekers, who expect to secure the votes of the colored population, feel but little gratification at the delay, for the registry cannot close too soon, nor the municipal election come off too quickly for them.

A new spirit seems to be infused into our people generally. They are beginning to see the evils of the do-nothing policy, and their anxiety now to register equals their former indifference on that subject. The advent of such men in our midst as Messrs. Kelly and Wilson, has rendered the fact visible to the least observing. They are determined to "fight the good fight" with such weapons as the government has graciously left them. It is their destiny to be defeated. They will, at least, feel that they have done their duty.

The Republican—(the radical republican organ of New Orleans) announced to the public a few days since, its "unalloyed pleasure at the arrival in our city of Hon. Henry Wilson, the distinguished Senator from Massachusetts." This man seems to be the right bower of the radicals—one they calculate on to win the game for them. He professes to be "not the agent of any political organization"—at the same time exhorts the colored men to stand square upon the republican platform, and they will have it in their power to make the constitution of the state, and send at least two senators and the majority of the members of congress. On Thursday night last he delivered a speech to quite a large assemblage. He seemed somewhat embarrassed by the riotous demonstrations of the freedmen, which occurred on the day of his arrival. It obviously proved that the whites required protection more than their colored compatriots. Mr. Kelly had gone very far in inciting the freedmen to demand their rights. It was necessary to back water. To do him (Wilson) justice, he is really conservative. Still there was a slight discrepancy in his platform, as he is not (as he states) "the agent of any political organization," yet "stands upon the republican platform." His speech was delivered to a mixed audience, of which about two-thirds were white. It is a significant fact that the colored radicals did not attend the Wilson meeting in a party character. These things show the ripening dissensions between the two sections of the republicans. The most important feature of his speech was his advice to the freedmen, counselling them against deeds of violence. He advised them to save money and buy lands, to avoid the whisky bottle, and reminded them that whites have rights as well as blacks—(a fact that seems to have been overlooked by previous radical speakers,) that no law could legislate them into the white man's parlor, nor the white man into his; stated that the colored men had hearts, hands and brain, and upon these their social position must depend, and wound up by saying: "We want no black party or no white party, and the man who places a ground of alienation between the races is the worst public enemy."

He was followed by Bishop Campbell, a colored man, who delivered some sensible remarks to those of his color present—saying among other things, if they wish to achieve the benefit of freedom they must depend upon themselves and not upon congress. The meeting passed off in an orderly manner.

Our city has been the scene of much excitement during the week, caused by the riotous proceedings of some of the negroes. The row arose among the negroes themselves in regard to the matter of employment in discharging steamboats upon the levee. In many instances the stevedores are colored men, and the riot grew out of their refusal to pay the price demanded by the employees. As the excitement increased, policemen attempted to interfere, but were very roughly handled; one policeman was hurt badly. Mayor Heath then made his appearance and endeavored to reason with the crowd, but to very little effect, many of them declaring that the mayor's speech was not the thing to suit them. The crowd still continued a lively fuss until they arrived in front of Gen. Mower's headquarters. They were ordered to desist by the general in person, to whom they paid no heed whatever, whereupon the general ordered a squad of United States cavalry near by to halt them, which was done in a few moments. Gen. Mower then spoke very plainly to them, saying it was evident they were bent on disturbing the peace, and unless they desisted at once the consequences would be fatal to them, and if sound advice did not suit, he would try a little grape and canister. These remarks produced the desired effect. In a little while the crowd dispersed, and all was once more quiet on the Mississippi and new basin.

The negro, in some phase or other, is continually making himself seen and heard. Political demagogues, for their own purposes, have so developed the negro's self-esteem, and inflamed his vanity, that he has come to the conclusion he has the freedom of the city. Not content to push himself into the cars with white persons, he imagines he has a right to frequent the bar rooms and restaurants, and enter all places of public amusement on an equality with the whites. They have not yet learned to realize that political and social privileges are two distinct affairs, and the possession of the one does not entitle him to the privileges of the other. This is a lesson yet to be acquired. Mayor Heath has issued a proclamation defining the privileges of the negro with respect to their right of access to the theaters, public balls, bar rooms, etc., in which he says:

"It is the undoubted right of citizens, upon complying with the requisites of the law, to pursue any legitimate business, and in such pursuit to admit into their stores and places of business, and to deal with such persons only as they shall see proper, and to make such rules and regulations for the guidance of their customers as to them shall seem most conducive to their interests, provided the same be not contrary to law. That if there be any special exceptions to such general rule, every citizen has the power and privilege of seeking redress from the civil tribunals."

He then says he has instructed the police "to protect all citizens in their lawful business occupations, and to prevent all persons whatever, from intruding into any store, shop, or other place of business conducted by private individuals, against the consent and wish of the owners, proprietors or keepers of the same, and warns all persons so doing, that they will be arrested and dealt with according to law."

Ours is undeniably a mixed race. New Orleans presents more shades and colors than any other city on the globe—ranging from the fairest Saxon to the sootiest Ethiopian. Even in the same family several shades are observed, which would naturally puzzle a stranger to account for. A good solution however is given to the mystery in the following explanatory anecdote going the rounds: "A gentleman inquired of a colored gent what caused such difference in the color of his children. The cullud lady promptly replied: 'Dat one was born free—de oders was born slaves—dat's what makes de difference in de skin!'" Such being the state of affairs, it is to be presumed that if the blessed light of freedom continues for a few years more, and our miscegenistic friends from the north do not abate their efforts in the glorious cause, the Ethiopian will change his skin, in defiance of gospel teaching to the contrary—and the freedman prove his right to no more be called a nigger.

The closing of the first national bank by the United States treasury, caused considerable commotion among the business men of our city during the early part of the week. Of course this excited much surprise in the monetary market, as this was considered one of the safe institutions of the city. It is said the sub-treasury officials are indebted to the amount of a million or more. The bank is in the hands of a government agent, investigating its affairs. Considerable distrust was manifested about the soundness of some of the other national banks, and a run was made upon the city national bank, which was promptly met by the officials of that institution. Probably the closest run ever made upon a bank in the United States was made during the day upon this bank. Of $675,000 on deposit, $610,000 were drawn out, when confidence was restored, and before closing $110,000 had again been placed upon deposit. The checks upon the bank, during the run, were all met promptly, and all is now regarded as safe and above suspicion, and it is believed that there is no cause of distrust in our banking institutions.

One of our oldest and most respected banking citizens, Mr. Jacob Barker, who has been engaged in the banking business for years, and who, notwithstanding many financial reverses, has arisen phoenix-like from the ashes to triumphantly build up his credit again, has again succumbed to ill-fortune and has suspended. He says that after the close of business on Thursday afternoon, he learned by telegraph the protest of exchange remitted to cover bills drawn by the Bank of Commerce. This, together with other disappointments, renders it impossible for him, in the present state of the money market, to meet his engagements. Mr. Barker appropriates unincumbered estate in this city that yields annual rent of $15,000 to the payment of the liabilities of the Bank of Commerce. It is hoped he will soon be enabled to resume, and his old friends see him once more at his well known place of business.

Respectfully, yours, DELTA.

STATE ITEMS.

—By direction of Major Carlisle, assessor of internal revenue for the third district, a convention of distillers assembled in Chattanooga on the 21st inst. The object of the assembly was to inform the distillers of the rules and regulations of the revenue department in regard to the distillation of spirits. An impression prevailed among them that the revenue tax from 1864 to the time when a collection district was established in this state, was not to be assessed and collected, consequently they had made no returns and were continuing the distillation business without complying with the law. The convention resulted in the dispelling of this false impression and the bringing of a large amount of revenue into the treasury.

—Professor Lowry was thrown from his buggy at Chattanooga on the 22d instant and seriously injured.

—Brownlow's Whig of the 22d inst. contains a correspondence between Rev. Mr. Holtsinger, a conservative, and the governor, in which the former asks if freedom in debate is to be allowed in county canvasses? The amount of Brownlow's answer is, that freedom of debate is to be permitted, but not a free ballot.

—Many persons will be dismayed at learning that Robertson county juice is virtually "suspended." The Springfield Register says: "Col. Willie Woodard has returned from Washington City. The object of his mission was in behalf of the distillery interest of the county, which proved fruitless."

—The registration of voters in Robertson county stands, 285 white, and 300 colored, and the books were closed yesterday.

—The justly celebrated poet priest Father Ryan, will spend the summer at the Lookout Mountain house.

—Brownlow's Whig, of the 22d inst., gives the following blast from the commander-in-chief in regard to his pets: Now that the rebel stump speakers and newspapers have lied themselves out of wind and out of countenance, as to the cost of the state guards, and the expenditure of over a million of dollars on a large standing army, the governor desires to say to the honest people of the State, to the utter shame and confusion of these lying rascals, that, up to this 22d of May, 1867, only six companies have been mustered into service, and are on pay by the state. And all told the six companies have not yet cost the state ten thousand dollars, owing to the fact that congress gave the state the arms and ammunition free of charges. Shame on a pack of demagogues and slanderers who can stoop so low to make political capital. The conduct of bad men and traitors will make it necessary to arm and equip more companies, and the governor gives this assurance, that he will take the responsibility to put them in the field! Meanwhile, we believe congress will appropriate the few thousand dollars necessary to feed and clothe the militia during the few months that they are in service.

—The Banner of the 24th says: In a letter, replying to the charge made that Gov. Brownlow's secretary was in some way connected with certain gold transactions dissected by John Baxter and reviewed by Brownlow himself, Gen. H. H. Thomas, the party referred to, makes a very plain and satisfactory statement. It is no more than justice to a political adversary to say that in this matter his personal conduct seems to be altogether blameless.

THE city of Evansville, Ind., recently shipped a boat load of negro paupers to Hickman, Ky. The poor darkeys were promptly reshipped, without a meal of victuals back. The starved wretches are "freedmen," who got over into Indiana during the war.

DURYEAS MAIZENA,
For Blanc Mange, Minute Pudding, Baked Pudding Boiled Custard, Mock Cream, Ice Cream, Pies, Cakes, Etc.
THE Maizena is one of the most wholesome, nutritious and agreeable articles of food in the whole range of farinaceous substances, and is an important addition to the culinary bill of fare. It may be cooked in all the forms mentioned above, and many more which good housekeepers will readily discover. It is manufactured from the choicest White Corn (hence its whiteness and great delicacy), put up in pound packages, under the trade mark "MAIZENA," with directions for use. Is a choice article for dessert and the sick room, being quite equal to the best Bermuda Arrow Root.
Received Prize Medals and Diplomas at international exhibitions at London, Hamburg and New York, for its great delicacy as an article of food. Give it one trial.

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their own interest. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and bills while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold worth.

THE GRAB GAME.—Mr. William Webb, who hails from over the river, exposed his pocket book to the view of James Richards, on the levee Friday night, when James made a grab and started. This being a state case, the prisoner was brought before Mr. Justice Lee, who fully committed him for trial.

WIDOWS AND ORPHANS.—The next lecture of the series at the Tabernacle on Court street, for the benefit of the widows and orphans of Confederate soldiers, will be delivered on Tuesday night by that popular orator and sterling gentleman, Gen. We hope to see the Tabernacle crowded on Tuesday night for the benefit of the Fanny Thurston fund.

THE SACRED CONCERT TO BE REPEATED.—We are pleased to learn the sacred concert, that attracted such a numerous auditory on Easter Sunday evening, will be repeated on Wednesday night the 5th of June, with the addition of several new and beautiful compositions, and an increase in the number of vocalists, including some who have never before sang in Memphis. Professors Sabatzky and Katzenbach will preside at the organ, and we have no doubt the proposed repetition will prove vastly superior to the first performance.

HIND & PORTER.—The failure of the above firm a few days ago in Cincinnati, has been confounded by a few with the firm of HANKS & PORTER. For the information of such persons we would say, there is no connection whatever between the firms; and from a personal acquaintance with the members of the firm of Hanks & Porter, there is little probability of our ever having to chronicle their failure—unless the bottom falls out of everything.

BREAKING JAIL.—About one o'clock yesterday morning the watchman at the county prison heard an unusual noise in the rear of the jail. On inquiry it was found that the room containing upwards of thirty prisoners, situate on the third floor of the prison, was about being vacated by the occupants, a hole having been broken through the roof and a string made of cut blankets to reach the ground from the adjoining building. The little game, however, was blocked by the efficient officers of Sheriff Winters. The ringleaders in the affair were put in irons and furnished with quarters below stairs.

THE COOPER HOMICIDE.

Examination Yesterday of Michael Gallagher, the Alleged Murderer.

A Large Number of Persons Present---No Conclusion Arrived At.

The mysterious circumstances connected with the shooting of Henry Cooper, in front of the Empire saloon, Sunday night, have evoked more comment than is usually made relative to similar affairs in which the parties are so little known. Without any misunderstanding at the moment, or any previous difficulty with any one, a man is suddenly shot down, and the author of the crime disappears in the gloom of night.

Henry Cooper, the victim, was known only to a few, and the alleged murderer, Michael Gallagher, was scarcely more widely known before the papers teemed with a record of the crime for which he was arrested. To-day the names of both are familiar to the public, and we have deemed the affair of sufficient importance to give the testimony, even before the magistrates' court, in full. The examination occurred before Esquire Walton, in the Criminal Court-room yesterday. The State was represented by Attorney General Wallace and Messrs. Van A. W. Anderson and —— Henry, Messrs. H. C. Young and T. S. Mallory appearing for the defense. Notwithstanding the unpleasant weather the courtroom was filled by friends of the different parties and individuals attracted by the announcement in the morning papers that a charge of murder was to be investigated.

The first witness called for the prosecution was Col. S. B. Beaumont, Superintendent Metropolitan Police. His testimony was as follows:

COL. BEAUMONT'S TESTIMONY.

I saw Cooper first on Monday, the day after he was shot; the wound was in the abdomen, about two inches from the navel; also saw him on Tuesday; was summoned as a magistrate to receive his dying declaration; Cooper was then evidently in a dying condition, and was convinced he could not recover; am confident he died from the effects of the wound mentioned; he lived until Wednesday; the dying declaration, as written by a friend of Cooper, was slowly and clearly read by witness to the dying man, who was asked by witness if that was to be understood as his dying declaration; Cooper replied that it was, and the document was accordingly so witnessed; was present after Cooper died.

Cross-examined by H. C. Young.—I saw Cooper the second day after the shooting; he was in full possession of his mental faculties; saw him first on Monday; Dr. Dunning was in the room at that time; the doctor made no statement to me relative to Cooper's condition; I had a free conversation with Cooper about the shooting; his verbal statements were similar to those in the declaration; don't know whether the declaration had been previously submitted to Cooper, who said the doctors and everybody else had said, and he was himself convinced, that he must die; in the conversation with witness, Cooper showed no ill-feeling toward any one; said there had been none between him and Gallagher; F. Hastings and G. W. Ramsey were in the room at the time.

THE DYING DECLARATION.

As a matter of interest in connection with the investigation, we subjoin Mr. Cooper's "dying declaration." It is as follows:

I, Henry Cooper, being conscious that I am about to depart this life, make this as my dying declaration, to-wit: On the night of the 19th of May, 1867, about the hour of eight o'clock, I, in company with Michael Scully and Alonzo Marshall, went into the Empire saloon to get a drink; remained there but a short time, and when proceeding out, were met on the sidewalk by Michael Gallagher, Tom Cannon and another man unknown to me. We had not been out doors long before a quarrel commenced between Gallagher, Scully, Cannon, Marshall and the party to me unknown; I took no part in the quarrel; presently Gallagher stepped up to me, placing a pistol (at the same time laughing) against my stomach, or in close proximity, and at the same time fired it off, which caused the wound in my stomach; he immediately ran away; I was not aware that Gallagher had any animosity against me; never had any harsh words with him; I had seen him previous to this on the same day; the man brought before me by Officer Smith to recognize was the man who shot me; his name was Michael Gallagher.

GEO. W. RAMSEY'S TESTIMONY.

I was present when the dying declaration of Henry Cooper was submitted to him; Cooper said it was correct; he was conscious that he could not live, the doctor and others had told him so; the document produced in court as the "dying declaration" is the one read by Col. Beaumont to Cooper, and which I witnessed; was not present when Cooper was shot; was aboard a steamboat; heard of the shooting soon afterward, and proceeded at once to Cooper's room, remaining there in attendance upon him nearly all the time until he died; when witness arrived several persons were present; the dying declaration was made Tuesday; was there just before it was made; it was written by Cooper's bedside; heard Dr. Dunning tell Cooper he must die; Thornton drew the declaration.

Cross-examination by H. C. Young.

Annie Cooper was present when Thornton came in to write the declaration; Col. Beaumont soon afterward entered, and was present when the document was signed; heard no conversation between any of the parties in the room before the document was signed; Drs. Dunning, Woodward and Taylor were there at different times; had conversations with Cooper previous to the date of the declaration; [question objected to by prosecution; objection overruled.] Cooper related the circumstances of the shooting; said he went out with a party and was shot, and that Gallagher was the man who shot him; when witness first saw Cooper after the shooting the latter would not tell him who shot him, but said he would tell McEwen; McEwen afterwards came in, went to Cooper's bedside, and the latter whispered something to him; have known Cooper twelve years in different cities, and was an intimate friend; Cooper was a Methodist in religious belief, and witness had understood from him that he was connected with that church. [Here objection was made by the prosecution to questions relative to Cooper's religious belief as intended to affect his dying declaration. Objection sustained.]

MICHAEL'S MCEWEN'S TESTIMONY.

Michael McEwen, an officer of the Metropolitan Police, was next introduced, and testified as follows: I arrested Gallagher in a house on Front street, between twelve and one o'clock Sunday night, the night of the shooting; first looked through a crevice in the door and saw him at the bar; the door was fastened, and the women inside at first refused admittance; some one asked, "Who is there?" when I replied, "'Curley,' (a nickname by which McEwen is known), and I want that murderer;" was fifteen minutes in getting in; finally drew Gallagher out of a bed in which he had been covered up; several persons were inside, and the house was thoroughly searched before the prisoner could be found; took Gallagher at once to the stationhouse; I was acting in the capacity of an officer.

Cross-examined by H. C. Young.—I saw Gallagher through a crack in the door; he was at the bar; two other men, a boy and a girl were also there; it was nearly one o'clock at night; I had information that Gallagher could be found at this house; Gallagher was sober when arrested, and made no resistance.

Direct Examination.—Cooper told me Gallagher shot him; I am an officer, and desired to get the murderer; Cooper said: "Curley, Gallagher shot me."

For the defense only one witness—Dr. Woodward, was called. He testified as follows:

was called to see the deceased—Cooper—Monday morning; did not say his case was hopeless, and that he could not recover, but that his condition was critical; this I said to his friends; I did not say anything on this subject to the deceased; tried to buoy up his spirits as much as possible; I give it as my professional opinion that Cooper's death resulted from the wound he received in the abdomen.

In consequence of the indisposition of Col. Young, one of the counsel for the defense, the conclusion of the argument was postponed until to-morrow morning.

THE APPROACHING FETE OF THE LEE ACADEMY.—Under the excellent management of Mrs. M. A. E. Morgan and her competent corps of assistant teachers, the Lee Academy, on Third street, between Madison and Monroe, has attained a most enviable repute among our institutions of learning. The approaching fete already announced promises to be a grand affair, and all connected with the Academy are making the most extensive preparations to insure to attendants a most pleasureable occasion. Among the attractions is a magnificent oil painting, executed by Mrs. Morgan, entitled "Glencoe"—a landscape—valued at $1000. This will be voted to the pastor of the most popular Memphis church. The picture is on exhibition at Blelock & Co's. A $300 diamond ring is to be voted to the most popular lady in Memphis. We hope the fete, which lasts but one night, will be generously patronized.

Dry Goods at Bargains.—Wholesale buyers will do well to examine the cheap Domestics of Menken Bros. my26 2t

THE BAPTIST FAIR CONTINUED.—The very unfavorable state of the weather has decided the ladies of the Tabernacle to continue their festival until Thursday evening of the ensuing week, on which night there will be a general auction. We understand the polls will be closed for the handsome stand of colors to the most popular steamboat, on Monday night, precisely at 11 o'clock. The vote now stands as follows: Commercial, 32; Celeste, 28; Great Republic, 55; Belle Memphis, 3; Belle St. Louis, 4; R. E. Lee, 3; City of Alton, 1; Marble City, 7; Gleaner, 4. The contest will be equally exciting. For the most popular hotel, the splendid silver service will be voted for Wednesday night. Our old and far-famed Gayoso house has 120; our new and popular friend the Overton, 115; Commercial, 2; Worsham house, 3. The vote for the gold-lined gobblet for the favorite son of temperance will be closed on Tuesday next at 10½ o'clock. The vote is as follows: Col. Moses White, 24½; Cayce, 12; Theo. H. Cocke, 20; Sullivan, 1; Hasting, 1. A handsome pyramid will be voted Monday night. Other articles, such as the child's carriage, the apron for the most popular Odd Fellow, the handsome silk quilt for the favorite baby, splendid capes, recherche bouquets, etc., etc., will be attended to during the week. On Thursday night there will be voted at eleven o'clock a splendid banner to the most popular division son of temperance. The postoffice, a most attractive feature of the room, is conducted by that trio of beautiful ladies, Misses Lenard, Jackson and Shepherd.

One of the most elegantly arranged tables in the room is the one situated in the northwest corner near the postoffice, presided over by Mrs. James M. Beattie, assisted by Miss Rochester and Miss Bettie Burleson, where cake, ice cream and strawberries are served most bountifully. No one can turn from this table without being impressed with the kindly grace and agreeable manner of the ladies who dispense these delicacies of the season. We were the happy recipient of a beautiful bouquet, as well as an abundant supply of cream and berries. Much success to these kind ladies during the coming week. We observed on this table, several elegant cakes, one a most magnificent one, presented by Capt. Jno. Davis, of our popular steamboat the Commercial. Another as beautiful in workmanship, presented by Capt. Reese Pritchard, of the favorite Celeste. One from our old friend W. H. Passmore, and two from Specht's. Bouquets of the most exquisite arrangement, fancy articles, etc., etc., graced this most attractive feature of the room.

GREAT BARGAINS.—If any of our readers desire to know where they can obtain dry goods of every description and of the very latest styles, besides all the novelties of the season, we refer them to the well known house of M. Kraus & Co., 218 Main street, corner of Adams. We have had the pleasure of dealing with this house, and from our personal knowledge of the proprietors we know they will sell goods, not simply at a reduction but at New York cost. They are determined to quit the retail business, and hence the great bargains that are daily offered. Their stock is large and varied, and has been selected by an experienced merchant, who knows the tastes of our people, having been merchandising many years in our city. By all means give them a call, if only for the purpose of satisfying yourself that dry goods can be obtained here in the city at New York prices.

MORE SHOOTING.—A man named Wiley Whitemore was shot on Jackson street, about seven o'clock yesterday morning, by a man supposed to be drunk. Name unknown. There was no words between the parties. The wounded man was properly cared for by his friends. The attending physician, Dr. J. M. Rogers, thinks his wound will prove fatal. The shooter made his escape. This promiscuous shooting is becoming too common, and some example will have to be made.

PUBLIC NOTICE—ELMWOOD CEMETERY.—The gates will be closed on Sundays and holidays, except to lot owners and their families and persons accompanying them, who will have to procure tickets from J. C. Holst & Co., No. 320 Main street, or at the office at the gate. This rule is adopted in consequence of rude conduct, fast driving and depredations on flowers recently.

By orner of managers.
S. W. PHILLIPS, Sup't.

Editors Appeal:

Allow us, through the medium of your excellent journal, to call the attention of the public to the above card. Our object in doing so is in order that the citizens may not be deceived, and compelled to procure from respectable gentlemen, Messrs. Holst & Co., those articles necessary to conduct funerals, which very frequently take place at Elmwood cemetery. The above order closing the gates is certainly the best move the managers of of the same have ever made, and one long advocated and urged by the different undertakers in our city. All should respect and revere the departed dead. Let them be interred where they may, they should command the highest and notlest feelings which characterize a pure citizen. The Greeks preserved and respected the graves of their fathers. The Romans did not forget to cherish the memory of their departed ancestors. The Persians made their places of burial the most beautiful and sacred known to man, calling their cemeteries a city of silence. Why should we not, even in this demoralized age and country, favor the closing of the gates against those who would intrude upon the sacred spot where lie those who now are lost to sight though to memory dear.

Messrs. Editors, in justice to ourselves we hope it was not the intention of the managers of Elmwood, to monopolize our business, and throw all in the hands of Messrs. Holst & Co., the above notice leaving an impression on the minds of the public that no one can enter in said cemetery except the above named firm. In conclusion, we would remark that all the undertakers herein signed are prepared to fill all orders to the Elmwood, notwithstanding the notice above.

Respectfully, yours,
THOS. O. SMITH, 59 Monroe street.

The Most Popular School.

Editors Appeal:—As there is more interest expressed in the voting for the most popular school in Memphis, than we expected would be manifested this early, and as some friends of some of the schools have already registered votes for their favorites, the society deems it due to all the schools and their friends, that the voting should at once be opened to all, by the public announcement that votes will be received at the bookstore of Blelock & Co., and at the jewelry store of F. H. Clarke & Co. Let it be remembered that the majority vote for any school is to be used by the principal of the favorite school as a petition, from the citizens of Memphis, for aid from the Peabody southern educational fund. Votes one dollar. Voting continued and concluded at the Greenlaw Opera House, on the evening of the 7th of June.

This certifies that I have had rheumatism for the last eight months; in that time have not been able to walk; could not use my arms nor hands; had to be lifted in and out of bed; in fact, I had not the use of a single joint in my body. This was my condition when I was carried into Drs. Person & Roberts' room, at the Overton Hotel, May 19th, and after not over fifteen minutes' treatment by Dr. Roberts I had the free use of my limbs, and walked without help down stairs and out to the carriage, and to-day—the 24th—after the third treatment, am looking for my husband and children, and have walked one and a half miles, feeling no uneasiness or return of my former aches and pains. I am a poor woman, and have no money to pay the doctor, but hope God will reward him for restoring me to my little ones.

LEE ACADEMY ANNUAL FETE.—The pupils of Lee Academy will hold their annual Fete, on the 7th of June, at the Greenlaw Opera House, for the benefit of the Lee Academy Educational Society, and for the purpose of raising means to procure a more commodious school building than the one now occupied by the school, and for purchasing apparatus and other necessary school fixtures. At the close of the Fete there will be very important voting, at the Greenlaw Opera House, for the most popular school in Memphis—the majority vote for any school to be used by the Principal of that school as a petition from the citizens of Memphis for aid from the Peabody Southern Educational Fund for the favorite school. Votes $1. A fine landscape oil painting, valued at $1,000, to be voted for, and presented to the pastor of the most popular church in Memphis. As the Fete will be held only one night, the voting in this case will have to be done in advance, by registering votes at the bookstore of Blelock & Co., where the painting will be on exhibition. Votes $1. A handsome diamond ring, valued at $300, to be voted to the most popular lady in Memphis. Votes $1; will be received at the jewelry store of F. H. Clarke & Co. The votes in each case will be counted, by committees of disinterested persons, from the registry of votes, and the result of the voting will be announced from the stage of the Greenlaw Opera House, on the evening of the Fete. Tickets of admission, fifty cents; for sale at the principal bookstores. Performances will commence at 8 o'clock, p.m.

The Aurora Oil.—The introduction of this oil is destined to work a great revolution in the lighting world. It possesses many advantages over all other means of light, from the fact that it is much cheaper than gas or coal oil, is free from any offensive smell, and best of all, non-explosive. We have examined it thoroughly, and without hesitation pronounce it superior to anything extant for the purposes for which it is recommended. It is also superior to turpentine for paints, oils and varnishes. The proprietors, Messrs. H. C. Dewitt & Co., have an office at 24 Madison street, but they dispose of state and county rights to manufacture only. Their patent has seventeen years to run. Territory is being sold rapidly, and parties desiring to make money will find this a good investment. Don't forget, 24 Madison street, up stairs. ap21 tf

OVERTON HOTEL, MEMPHIS, Memphis, Tenn.

I hereby certify that for three years past I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism. My joints were so stiff that I was unable to get upon my feet without help. I was bent over so that I could not stand erect, and had no strength and no use of myself. I came to Drs. Persons & Roberts, and in one treatment by Dr. Roberts of fifteen minutes, he straightened me up, loosened all my joints, and I am able to get about without difficulty.

This certifies that having suffered extremely with Rheumatism for seven months past, I have been entirely relieved FROM PAIN by Professor Roberts in two magnetic treatments; and although seventy-six years of age, I now feel more like a man of twenty-five, so supple and flexible have my limbs become from being almost entirely helpless, not being able to put my coat on even without assistance. The Buntyn
HOMESTEAD LANDS
FOR SALE.

WE have the pleasure of placing on the market those very desirable and valuable lands, so well known to the community as the Homestead Tract of the late Geraldus Buntyn, Esq., situated at the first station on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, five miles east of the city. The improvements, with about twenty acres of land, have been recently sold to Hume F. Hill, Esq., who now resides upon the premises. The balance of the tract, consisting of about 180 acres, has been laid off in lots varying in size from five to ten acres, fronting upon broad avenues, and laid off so as to secure the greatest amount of comfort. The trains of the Memphis and Charleston railroad afford the opportunity of going in and out of the city, from and to Buntyn's Station, four times a day, so as to make a residence at this point almost as convenient as to live in the city itself.

The choice can now be had of lots wholly or part in original forest, or in field,

In Exchange for City Property.

The executors are directed by the Will to sell this place and invest in city property, and we will receive propositions to exchange for either improved or vacant lots in the city.

To all parties looking for a suburban residence, we do not think any property more desirable can be found, in regard to health, convenience or good neighborhood, within the same distance from the city.

The terms will be made very liberal and easy, and the prices low to parties desirous of buying for occupation. Plans of the subdivision will be shown at our office.

DR. WM. EVERETT

CAN be found at Rooms No. 5 and 6, Southern House, corner of Main and Beal street, where he is prepared to treat and advise with all ladies having diseases peculiar to their sex. Age and long experience convinces him that all can be relieved, no matter how severe the case, or of how long standing; and above all others he desires those cases which have been

PRONOUNCED INCURABLE.

☞ Diseases of children will also receive especial attention.

BE NOT DECEIVED.—READER, if you have had the sad misfortune to contract the accursed disease, known as venerial, in any form, you can be cured (I care not in what stage it may present itself, whether primary, secondary or tertiary), without taking one solitary grain of medicine. After ten years of close investigation and practical experience, I am convinced that internal treatment, for the purpose of effecting a permanent cure of syphilitic diseases is useless, and, that in a large proportion of cases, it absolutely does more harm than good. While under my method of external medication, which is pleasant and agreeable to the patient, I defy competition with any other method known to the medical profession, for speedy and permanent cure—which I guarantee in all cases. In making this important fact known to the public, I wish to state that I am a regular practitioner of medicine; that I am a graduate of the Medical Department of the University of Louisville, Ky., and that my method of treating these diseases has cost years of deep study and close observation.

All diseases of the Ear and Eye treated upon the most improved methods.

OFFICE—No. 33 Monroe street, between Main and Second. Respectfully, mys-1m G. W. McLOED, M. D.

DR. C. SPIEGEL, graduate of the best medical schools of Europe and the United States, and member of the principal medical societies in those countries, has practiced medicine in Memphis for the last thirteen years, and continues to offer his professional services to the public, in the treatment of all forms of disease upon the most improved European methods. My vast collections of rare medicines and surgical instruments, with a life-long experience in their administration and use, warrants me in claiming a superiority over the more ordinary method of treating diseases, such as CANCER and TUMORS of every description, which I cure by Constitutional treatment exclusively, no operation performed by the knife. Diseases of the Eye, Ear and Skin, Consumption and Bronchitis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia Scrofula, Syphilis, Stricture, Gleet, Grave, Piles, Dropsy, Fistula in ane; in short, all Chronic Diseases, giving especial attention to FEMALE DISEASES of every description. I am always ready at all times to consult with first-class Physicians, either by letter or in person, upon all diseases pertaining to medicine and surgery. Medicine sent by express to all parts of the world, when desired.

Concentration Gives Strength.

DR. F. B. WALTON TENDERS HIS SERvices to the public in the treatment of the diseases of females. So obscure are many of these, so capricious in their manifestations, so perfectly do they simulate other diseases, that their true character is often overlooked or mistaken; prominent among these are, Neuralgia Dyspepsia, that condition of the system commonly called Nervous or Rheumatic, and General Debility, this last is too often but a symptom of some insidious disease which is sapping the foundations of life. To become expert in the detection of these and skillful in their treatment, requires more labor and research than the general practitioner can bestow. These facts induced him to devote himself to this branch of the profession exclusively. To those interested he would state that he has had the advantage of the best medical schools and extensive hospitals of America; also a practice of more than twenty years in this his native State and in the tropics, where such diseases most abound. He is permitted also to refer to Drs. Pitman and Hopson, gentlemen who stand deservedly high in the profession. Office, No. 354 Main street. Residence, No. 291 Linden street, Memphis, Tenn. my5 1m.

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

THINGS THAT NEVER DIE.

The pure, the bright, the beautiful,
That stirred our hearts in youth,
The impulses of wordless prayer,
The dream of love and youth,
The longings after something lost,
The spirit's yearning cry,
The strivings after better hopes—
These things can never die.

The timid hand stretched forth to aid
A brother in his need,
That kindly word in grief's dark hour
That prove the friend indeed;
The plea of mercy softly breathed
When justice threatens nigh;
The sorrow of the contrite heart—
These things shall never die.

The memory of a clasping hand,
The pressure of a kiss,
And all the trifles sweet and frail
That make up love's first bliss;
If, with a firm, unchanging faith
And holy trust on high,
Those hands have clasped, those lips have met,
These things shall never die.

The cruel and bitter word
That wounded as it fell,
The chilling want of sympathy
We feel but never tell;
The hard repulse that chills the heart,
Whose hopes were bounding high,
In an unfading record kept—
These things shall never die.

Let nothing pass, for every hand
Must find some work to do;
Lose not a chance to strengthen love,
Be firm, and just and true,
So shall a light that cannot fade,
Beam on thee from on high,
And angel voices say to thee,
These things shall never die.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND BUSINESS.

Rain fell with but little intermission, from a very early hour yesterday morning until late in the afternoon. Our streets and levee are covered with mud. Business was almost suspended and our local packets got away with poor trips.

The Ohio was at a stand at Louisville on the 24th, and was no doubt, falling yesterday if the rains did not again cause a swell. At St. Louis "big muddy" still slowly rises. At this point the decline goes on bravely. The fall during the past twenty-four hours being six inches, and the total fall not less than eleven feet.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The St. Charles goes out for New Orleans at 3 p.m.

The Mollie Hambleton, Capt. Bowman, leaves for St. Francis river Tuesday at 5 p.m.

The Clifton, Capt. Frank Stein, will depart for Cincinnati Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock.

The Centralia, for Arkansas river will go out to-morrow evening at the usual hour.

The Belle Memphis, Capt. Musselman, goes out for St. Louis to-morrow evening at 5 o'clock.

The Commercial, Capt. Davis, leaves for White river on Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock.

Capt. Elliott has, we learn, succeeded in gaining possession of the Natoma, and will put her in the Des Arc's place on Saturday next.

The steamer Pioneer was purchased by Capt. H. J. Brinker at New Orleans a few days ago, especially for the Camden and Arkadelphia trade, for $8000.

There is a good opening in China for some of our idle packets. Ample fortunes have been realized there by the owners of small steamers introduced from England or the United States for employment in the domestic trade. The native junks lost a good share of their business under the competition. At last the Americans seem in some way to have gained a special advantage. The supreme court and consular Gazette says that American boats should be exclusively employed for the traffic of the Canton river is a contingency which can be readily comprehended, but we cannot appreciate the move of the employment of British jurisdiction and British capital, to the exclusion of British interests. Moreover, we are very sure that sidewheel boats cannot compete with screw boats in the carriage of heavy merchandise, simply on the point of immersion. As the traffic on the Yangtze consists of heavy merchandise, it follows that screw boats are better adapted to the trade than the large American sidewheel boats which now monopolize it. Further, as screw boats can be built in England at about half the cost that sidewheel boats can be built in the United States, there is no reason why things should not find their proper level, and British interests be properly represented.

The loyal subject of her majesty who penned the above article had evidently never traveled. Wouldn't 'is eyes hopen to see a few 'undred 'ed of 'eavy 'orses and loike stuff on a Mississippi palace like the Lee, Richmond or Republic.

Mark Twain has been to see the "Black Crook," and is not pleased with it. Says: "I warn you that when they put beautiful clipper-built girls on the stage in this new fashion, with only barely clothes enough on to be tantalizing, it is a shrewd invention of the devil. It lays a heavier siege to public morals than all the legitimate model artist shows you can bring into action."

The contract for transporting United States supplies between St. Louis and New Orleans has been awarded to Capt. Lloyd T. Belt of the Lady Gay, backed by the Atlantic and Mississippi steamship company. The contract goes into operation on the 1st of June.

Charles Fette, mate of the towboat Friendship, was drowned off the steamer on Thursday, near the foot of Mulberry street, St. Louis.

The Gen. Quitman and Great Republic passed up last evening, with fair trips. The Quitman will return to leave for New Orleans on Wednesday next.

The St. Louis Democrat of the 24th says:

The rise of the Mississippi at this place was steady yesterday, and more rapid than anticipated. Sundry lots of merchandise along the warf was threatened with a soaking. There is fifteen feet of water to Cairo; an abundance on the shoals, bars and rapids of all the upper rivers as far as steamers have yet gone this season. It has been, so far, a season remarkably favorable to steamboat navigation, and consequently to the transportation of freight and people.

FINANCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, }
MEMPHIS, May 25, 1867. }

The paucity of business and the weather caused financial affairs to seem more than usually dull to-day. Gold is steadily declining, both in New York and this market. The opening rate here was 35½c, but brokers offered only 35 to 36c towards the close of the day.

Silver is offered in small lots. Buying at 26 to 27c.

City scrip is dull at 50 to 53c buying, and 55 to 56c selling. One sale of $1700 was made by a broker at 55c.

County scrip is in demand at 85 to 87c buying. Selling at 90 to 92c.

Police scrip is dull at 70c buying. Selling at 75 to 80c.

Exchange is offered in excess of the demand. Our banks buy at ⅛ to ¼ off for eastern, and sell at par to ¼ premium. New Orleans is bought at ¼ discount, and sold at par.

In stocks and bonds we have to report a sale of 100 shares Memphis and Charleston stock at 57c. A small sale of Memphis city bonds was also made at 52½c. We quote others dull and nominal.

Memphis and Ohio railroad bonds, 15 to 20c. Memphis and Little Rock first mortgage bonds, no sale; Memphis and Charleston railroad bonds, 70c; Tennessee bonds, with coupons, 65 to 70c; Tennessee bonds, new, 65 to 70c; Mobile and Ohio railroad bonds, no sale; Memphis city coupons, 52 to 53c; Memphis city railroad stock, 30c.

There is little [illegible]nation in uncurrent money. Bank of Tennessee is in less demand, and has a tendency downward. Other banks are firm.

We learn that the Western and Atlantic railroad paid into the treasury of the state of Georgia the sum of $50,000 for the month of April.

The appearance in New York of a considerable amount of new coupon 5-20s of 1862 is issued from the treasury within the last ten days, is attracting attention among the dealers in government securities, and they are at a loss to account for them. The secretary of the treasury has no authority to issue new bonds of this description, the original limit of the 1862 issue was exceeded by about fifteen millions, and congress had to legalize the excess, since which time nothing further has been enacted respecting this class of bonds. Some persons, supposing that Mr. McCulloch might be exchanging registered bonds of 1862 for coupons, wrote to him asking whether he was willing to make such an exchange, to which he replied in the negative, saying that he had no authority to do so under any act of congress. It may be, nevertheless, that he is exchanging registered bonds of 1862, originally deposited by national banks as a basis of circulation which the currency bureau, for new coupon bonds, and receiving in their stead 5-20s of the new issue of 1865.

The mines of the state of California and the adjacent territories have, for the past seventeen years, produced an average of $60,000,000 per annum, or an aggregate of $1,000,000,000 of bullion; and yet so remunerative are mining operations as a whole that it would be difficult to-day to find in that state one man for every $100,000,000 who has grown rich by working the mines. Mining is to-day, as it always has been, a fascinating illusion; and a complete abrogation of all taxes and restrictions upon mining enterprises and the repeal of all charges at the mint, would tend to develop the country and enhance its products. The present tax levied upon foreign bullion naturally drawn to this country for assaying, refining and coinage, amounting to one and a half per cent. on gold and two and a half per cent. on silver, has the effect to repel the product of Mexico and British Columbia, and to force them into other channels. The coinage of money is a necessity of the government and a benefit to the entire community, and its expense should not be borne by the few who produce the material. Other governments have long since restricted their mints to coinage only, and if the secretary of the treasury will contract with private refiners for an exchange of crude for refined bullion, and throw the small expense of coinage upon the treasury, the results which will arise in the reduction of the price of gold and the consequent advance in our national securities will much more than compensate for the loss of revenue from this source.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

There was nothing of general interest transpiring in the general markets today. Trade, as a general thing, is remarkably dull in every department, the demand being restricted to the immediate wants of buyers. Merchants are making but little effort to press sales. Cash, or as near cash as possible, is now the basis of every transaction, and the mercantile and financial affairs of the city are being managed with healthy caution.

COTTON—There was a very fair inquiry to-day for all grades and liberal sales. The amount of cotton on hand has been very generally overestimated, and when it was found by actual count that the stock was less than supposed, buyers were more anxious to fill their orders even at better figures. Receipts for the day, 37 bales; shipments, 600 bales. Receipts for the week, 1108 bales; exports, 2808 bales. We raise our quotations on the better grades.

No. 1.
THE CHINGARORA
ANTI-NERVOUS
SMOKING TOBACCO!

THE CHINGARORA TOBACCO grows from the rich soil of the "ORIENT," and is possessed of a peculiarly delicious flavor entirely unknown to the tobaccos of all other climes. But its unprecedented popularity has sprung from the fact of the entire absence of that deadly poison Nicotin, which permeates every other tobacco, and which is the one and sole cause of the distressing nervous diseases, dyspepsia, etc., which most invariably, sooner or later, follow the indulgence of the pipe and cigar. At the recent analyzation of tobacco from all parts of the world, at the Academy of Sciences, in Paris, the renowned chemist, M. Lamoureaux, declared that while European and American tobacco contained fully eight per cent., and the purest Havana tobacco from two to five per cent. of Nicotin, the CHINGARORA did not contain one discoverable particle of that deadly poison, a drop of which, extracted, will destroy life.

Our agent at Bombay has shipped us large quantities of the CHINGARORA during the past two years, and although we have been pressed to supply the demand for this delicious luxury of the veteran smoker, yet we are now prepared to offer it in unlimited quantities, at a price much lower than some American tobacco of a far inferior quality.

A connoisseur has but to smoke the American tobacco and cigars, which are invariably chemically flavored, to be disgusted with the medicinal taste which leaves a nauseous, unhealthy coating in the mouth, and in time seldom fails to shatter the nervous system.

The natives of the "ORIENT" smoke the CHINGARORA from morn till night, from youth to age, and are happily unconscious of the wild, distressing fire which courses through the veins of the inhaler of the fumes of tobacco containing Nicotin.

We invite every lover of the weed to try the CHINGARORA, and guarantee unprecedented pleasure in its delicious flavor.

Sold everywhere at $1 a pound.
